

Weekly Horoscopes to survive the end of the Spring semester

Aries (The Ram) March 21st-April 19th

If you find yourself feeling particularly lethargic this week, push through it. Things aren't going to get any easier, and you will feel better in the long run.

Taurus (The Bull) April 20th-May 20th

Do not be afraid to embrace your talents this week and share them with the world. As warmer weather approaches, you might find it easier to show off.

Gemini (The Twins) May 21st-June 20th

A piece of sensitive information may be disclosed to you by a trusted friend. Keep it under wraps for now, despite whatever gossip you hear and are tempted by.

Cancer (The Crab) June 21st-July 22nd

Your head may be in the clouds this week, but do what you can to stay grounded. Focus now so that you can relax later.

Leo (The Lion) July 23rd-August 22nd

You have an excellent thirst for adventure that must be quenched! Keep in mind that you have responsibilities and tasks to take care of.

Virgo (The Virgin) August 23rd-September 22nd

The winds of change are blowing your way. Do not resist this calling – is there anything in your life that is stopping you from reaching your full potential?

Libra (The Scales) September 23rd-October 22nd

If you are looking for love, do not look further than your current environment. The classroom or workplace could be the perfect place to spark a relationship.

Scorpio (The Scorpion) October 23rd-November 21st

You might be overthinking a few problems right now. Turn that stress into exercise and take your mind off of everything.

Sagittarius (The Archer) November 22nd-December 21st

The news you have been waiting for is taking longer than you had hoped for. Do not lose hope – you'll find out eventually.

Capricorn (The Goat) December 22nd-January 19th

Use this week to work on your flexibility. You might be clashing with friends or family because of how stubborn you are.

Aquarius (The Water Bearer) January 20th-February 18th

Whether you realize it or not, you may be holding yourself back from opportunities. Do not sabotage your future by being shy.

Pisces (The Fishes) February 19th-March 20th

Do not compare yourself to others, especially those in your friendship circle. This will only lead to jealousy and pent up aggression.

Lucca's Grill: The newfound gem of Downtown Bloomington

GABRIELLE GHADERI
STAFF WRITER

As a college student eating campus food everyday, it doesn't take much for off-campus food to seem like a luxury.

After weeks of eating Saga for dinner, even a McDonald's Big Mac seems like the finest burger in town.

So when I had the chance to go to Lucca's Grill in downtown Bloomington, I was less concerned with the quality of food as I was with the sheer excitement of getting to eat off-campus.

Although I would have been pleased with a mediocre, everyday restaurant, Lucca's Grill showed me exactly what I was missing in a pleasurable dining experience.

The cozy, old-timey saloon atmosphere hit me the instant I stepped into the restaurant.

From the mahogany bar, to the painted tin ceiling, to the working dumbwaiter, Lucca Grill is comfortingly historic.

The restaurant is also covered with pennant flags from every college imaginable along with portraits of various Democratic figures, making it the perfect place for the average college student (especially the average IWU student).

Lucca Grill serves a wide range of pasta, burgers and pizza (namely their specialty pie, the Al Baldini).

One thing I did notice, however, is that the menu had very few meatless options.

Though I am not vegetarian myself, I was raised by one so I am familiar with the struggle of finding meatless dishes that are of the same quality as their meat based counterparts.

For that reason, I decided to settle on a black bean veggie burger.

The patty itself was the typical composition of black beans, corn, cumin, and onion powder, nothing too special.

What I was impressed by, however, was the freshness.

Most veggie burgers taste as though they've been frozen but this burger tasted like the vegetables were killed out back.

Not only was the burger fresh, so were the toppings and bun.

In addition to the veggie burger, I also tried a slice of the famous Al Baldini pizza to see if the meat dishes parred at all with the meatless one.

Topped with sausage, pepperoni, ham, onions, mushrooms, green peppers and pepperoncini, this pizza is every foodie's dream.

Although the crust was a tad too thin for me, the abundance of toppings and flavors compensated.

Besides the variety of dishes, Lucca's Grill's service was prompt and cordial. Our waiter treated our party like an old friend or family member.

In addition, the food was served in a timely fashion which is another major plus for college students.

Oftentimes college students are especially discouraged to eat off campus simply due to the time it takes to sit and eat a meal.

Photo courtesy of: Trip Advisor

Lucca Grill restaurant was established in 1936.

In fact, I was a bit worried that going out to lunch an hour before the start of my shift was going to be too risky.

My fears were all for naught though because our table of six was served and ate all under an hour.

Lucca's Grill is the perfect place to visit when campus dining gets old.

Though the menu items are on the pricier end of a college student's budget, it is worth the investment.

Not only are you paying for high quality food at a sit down restaurant that isn't Tommy's, you are paying for a pleasant and unique experience.

The timeless and family-like atmosphere of Lucca's Grill is definitely worth the adventure off campus.